

Round About New York

Gossip of People and Things in the Great Metropolis

OLD TRINITY CHURCH HAS ENORMOUS FORTUNE

NEW YORK.—There is probably no other estate in New York about which it would be so difficult to obtain exact information as that with which the Trinity church was endowed by good Queen Anne 202 years ago. The vague statement recently put forth by its rector concerning the income of the parish stimulated an inquiry by one of the title guaranty companies as to how long it would take to make a list of the various parcels of real estate held by Trinity and what such a list would cost. This brought forth the information that it would be necessary to search the public records for three centuries past and that the cost of the investigation would be not less than $1,000.

One of the principal difficulties in the way of finding out how much of the famous old "Bouwerie" of Anneke Jans is now the property of "Mrs. Trin," as the corporation was styled in a parable written in its defense longer than half a century ago, is the fact that many of the holdings are leased for long periods to others, under whose names they appear on the tax assessor's books. Fifty years ago, when Trinity was investigated by a committee of the state senate it appeared that originally the mother of Protestant churches in New York owned 2,068 lots, of which 318 had been given away and 691 remained. The other 1,059 it was inferred, had been sold. This report is the only full one made since 1814, when the policy of keeping the financial affairs of the corporation a secret was adopted. With this report for a basis, however, and some shrewd computations of the present value of the unassessed property therein listed, Trinity's wealth in real estate has been estimated at $39,368,100.

The famous brown structure which frowns unheeded upon the Mammon worshippers of Wall street is assessed at $115,000, but the site which it occupies and the cemetery surrounding form one of the choicest pieces of New York real estate, being valued at $17,000,000.

CHARITY OF "BIG TOM" THAT MADE POOR HAPPY

IT is notable that among the 4,000,000 persons in New York there is none that is doing the sort of charity work that for years made Thomas Brennan beloved by uncounted thousands. "Big Tom," as he was known affectionately by those who were the objects of his kind solicitude and those who looked on admiringly while he gladdened the hearts of hosts of poor folks in the city, was not a wealthy man, but from his comparatively meager pile he gave most bountifully. His peculiar hobby was taking poor women and children away from the crowded quarters on holidays and out to sea or into the country. Chartering a steamer or a train, Brennan would go among the poor on the East Side and pass out tickets to scores upon scores, tickets which told them where to take the boat or the train, and how they could spend the day as his guests, with lots to eat and many games to play, music and fishing tackle for all who wanted to cast a line and bathing suits for those who wanted to swim. Time after time Mr. Brennan escorted thousands of rugged, happy youngsters out into the open spaces, many of them accompanied by their mothers, who smiled happily when they saw their children romping round the big, jovial man, who had brought so much joy into their lives. More than a few times Brennan would slip a $10 bill into the hand of some woman who looked as though she needed a new dress, and never would he wait to hear the outpouring of thanks or to see the grateful tears that followed.

The peculiar feature of Brennan's charity was that it had no tinge of politics in it. There is the Timothy D. Sullivan association which now takes thousands of poor people on excursions in the summer time, but those who go are those who live in the district where Sullivan or his machine wants support, and whose relatives have votes—at least one apiece. But Brennan favored no district, he sought to gain nothing but a look into happy dirty faces, and to make life's burden a little lighter for a few. As he went about the city when he was commissioner of charities and saw a family that needed an outing that family got an invitation to his next excursion, and there was no string attached to it. And when the day arrived the one jovial, fatherly touch of Brennan made all aboard akin.

WOMEN OF FOUR HUNDRED OFTEN VISIT "UNCLE"

PAWN BROKERS are doing a land-office business with fashionable women this year. Bridge and poker losses have been so common among the elite that frequent trips are made from the green table to the loan office. It hardly would seem that the little vices of the exclusive social set could have so great an effect on anything so far removed from them in character as a pawnshop. True it is, nevertheless, most persons in New York's hansom circle have money to burn, but they don't always have it when they want to start a little fire, and it's no rare thing for them to be hard pushed to pay their losses within the time prescribed by the unwritten code. Such debts must be paid, of course, and paid promptly. So off goes Miss Four Hundred to one of the several pawnshops catering to the "carriage and automobile" trade and quickly pawns anything from bedrooins to the most modern jewelry. Diamonds that have shone in the ballroom, grand

HOODOO HOUSE OWNED BY LATE "SILENT" SMITH

WHEN "Silent" Smith purchased the palace at Sixty-eighth street, probably known as 871 Fifth avenue, he smiled contentedly and dismissed with his accustomed brevity of speech the warning of his friends that it was a house of doom. It is recalled that six times have death and disaster stricken those who have lived in the house or who have been connected with it, the last of them being "Silent" Smith.

Long before the house was finished the original owner, Howard G. Howard, was found hanging from a rafter in an unfinished room. William C. Whitney built a new house about the old, including it as a large shell incloses a small one, but without removing the hoodoo which has hung to it since that first tragic event; for scarcely had the fairyland of Italian renaissance been completed within the brownstone walls when the bride for whom Whitney had designed it was brought in to die from the effects of a hunting accident at Aiken. Then one day the report reached the financial district that its leader lay ill in his magnificent home. Mr. Whitney died and gossip forgot the curse until last June, when Stanford White, who had helped to build and decorate the house, was shot by Harry K. Thaw. Business adventures and ill health have overtaken Anatol L. Barber, and they call him the "asphalt king" no longer, except in derision. Now J. H. Smith, the late owner of the house, is dead. The hoodoo has struck again.

THEY FORMED A FLY TRUST.

Canny Kids Worked the Bounty Proposition for All It Was Worth.

Once in Hartford the flies were so numerous for a time, and so troublesome, that Mrs. Clemens conceived the idea of paying George a bounty on all the flies he might kill. The children saw an opportunity here for the acquisition of sudden wealth. They supposed that their mother merely wanted to accumulate dead flies, for some aesthetic or scientific reason or other, and they judged that the more flies she could get the happier she would be; so they went into business with George on a commission. Straightway the dead flies began to arrive in such quantities that Mrs. Clemens was pleased beyond words with the success of her idea. Next, she was astonished that one house could furnish so many. She was paying an extravagantly high bounty, and it presently began to look as if by this addition to our expenses we were now probably living beyond our income.

After a few days there was peace and comfort; not a fly was discoverable in the house; there wasn't a straggler left. Still, to Mrs. Clemens' surprise, the dead flies continued to arrive by the plateful, and the bounty expense was as crushing as ever. Then she made inquiry, and found that our innocent little rascals had established a fly trust, and had hired all the children in the neighborhood to collect flies on a cheap and unburdensome commission.—Mark Twain's Autobiography in North American Review.

AMAZING LIFE JOURNEY.

Champion Long Distance Traveler an English Engine Driver.

Between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 miles is the amazing distance said to have been traveled by Mr. James Guest, the doyen of Great Northern express drivers, who has just retired after half a century of honorable service. If this estimate is at all accurate, Mr. Guest is probably entitled to rank as the champion long-distance traveler of the world, although he has had a formidable rival in Mr. Benjamin Jeans, who, during his 54 years' service as guard on the London & Birkenhead express, is credited with having traveled 4,000,000 miles, or more than the equivalent of 160 journeys round the equator.

Mr. John Higginbottom, a veteran engine driver on the Midland railway, completed 2,000,000 miles on the footplate a few years ago; and Mr. Robert Maybank, who served 50 years as engine driver on the London & South-western railway, and who was fireman on the train which brought the prince of Wales to London 41 years ago to meet his bride, Princess Alexandra of Denmark, was credited with a similar record.—Tit-Bits.

Obliteration of the Defoe's.

On April 25, 1751, there "died of a lethargy, at a lodging in Ropermaker's Alley, Moorfields," one Daniel Defoe, rebel, secret service agent, bankrupt, hostler, and author of the immortal "Robinson Crusoe." The old manor house at Mileham where the famous classic was written is doomed to destruction, and in a few years we shall have little save memory and our gratitude to remind us of the worthy Daniel. Of his family there is none now living. Less than five years ago Miss Mary Ann De Foe, his granddaughter, died and was buried in Abney Park cemetery. About 15 months before that the last descendant on the male side, James W. Defoe, had passed away—in the workhouse at 15shop's Stortford.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Hearse, Not Deaf.

The man with a cold looked more irritated than the occasion warranted. "Good morning," he croaked to a neighboring commuter who dropped into the seat beside him.

"What's worrying you?" shouted his friend. "You look as if you were ready to bite nails."

"You would, too, if every fool you met bellowed at you," replied the man hoarsely. "See here old man, I don't want to be ugly, but will you kindly tell me why you yell at me just because I'm hoarse. It's no sign that I'm deaf just because my voice is hoarse, yet every chump who's talked to me for two days has shouted at me. My eardrum is almost fractured from the noise."

Not Meant for Him.

"See here!" indignantly cried the transient guest, "there's a collar button in this best stew."

"O! that's a mistake, sir," said the bright waiter.

"A mistake? Well, I should say—'Yes, sir; we never give extras except to our regular customers.'—Catholic Standard and Times.

Had His Boots.

"And you say the girl's father came looking for you the other night when you called?"

"Indeed he did."

"And you fled, I suppose, so his quest was bootless?"

"Well, I didn't fly soon enough, and his quest was positively not bootless."—Yonkers Statesman.

ARABLE LAND LIMIT

HOW LONG CAN THE DESERT HOLD BACK THE FARMER?

Science Increasing the Tillable Area of the Semi-Arid Region—Experts Do Not Agree on What Is the Arid Land.

One of the most interesting controversies of a scientific nature is that which relates to the limit of the arable land in the arid and semi-arid portions of the western continent. It is evident that the limits of the desert are movable and that science is helping to move the limit back at a rapid rate. But the scientists and the practical farmers do not agree on how to define the limits.

Under the rulings of the general land office at Washington it has been held that where the precipitation, or fall of rain and snow, is less than 20 inches annually the provisions of the desert land act apply. In other words any country or section where nature has not provided at least 20 inches of water annually is a desert. It is in this region of low precipitation that the irrigation movement is accomplishing so much for American agriculture. The government is spending millions of dollars for the reclamation of the arid lands by irrigation projects and it is estimated that when all the water available for irrigation has been used at least ten per cent. of the arid lands will be used.

H. W. Campbell, the Apostle of "Dry Farming."

But is all land where the rainfall is less than 20 inches to be regarded as desert? That is a question which is made important by the work done by practical farmers of the west. The plain farmers are not agreed with the college farmers.

Prof. H. T. French, of the University of Idaho, states that "on account of the wonderful advancement in our understanding of the science of soil cultivation and soil metabolism, it is possible to-day to grow crops where a few years ago it was deemed an utter impossibility." Prof. Milton Whitney, of the United States bureau of soils, was astonished to discover that in California they are farming where the rain ceases almost entirely in the summer. Yet the scientists have been holding fast a long time to the theory that anything less than 20 inches of rainfall means a desert and such land can only be made by irrigation.

Prof. W. M. Jardine, of the United States bureau of plant industry, states that a region "is considered arid when the total precipitation is 15 inches or less," but he has been out west looking at conditions as they are and he finds on investigation that "recent investigations in dry farming, or farming without irrigation, have demonstrated that paying crops can be produced in regions where the annual precipitation is as low as ten inches, thus bringing under cultivation millions of acres which up to the present time have been considered useless except for range purposes."

Prof. H. W. Campbell, of Lincoln, Neb., who represents the practical farmers in development of the best systems of farming for the west, has not pretended that farming could be done with success every year on ground with as low as ten inches of rainfall, but he has been for over 20 years stoutly insisting that "good farming can be done with less than 20 inches of rainfall. He would hardly fix a limit, for the limit is dependent on things other than the actual number of inches of water per year. He has gone on demonstrating year by year that the application of some common sense to the science of soil cultivation and intelligent care of the water which falls on the so-called semi-arid region, will enable a farmer to do business year after year.

If the practical farmers, under the leadership of Prof. Campbell, go on as they have in the past, encroaching upon the deserts, the general land office at Washington will be forced to revise its rule in regard to what is desert and what is not. The 20-inch mark is not right, as the farmers have already demonstrated, and already it is a question whether the 15-inch mark would be any better. Certainly it is that farming is being successfully carried on by thousands of farmers who are not favored by as much as 20 inches of precipitation each year.

The truth is that the desert land of America is growing beautifully less each year, and it is only a question until it is all to be wiped off the map.

ORA WILLIAMS.

LINK WITH THE DEAD PAST.

Woman Has Handkerchief Stained With Blood of Charles I.

An interesting Derbyshire "link with the past" is recalled by Mr. J. H. Sharpley of Hatfield college, Doncaster, in a letter to the Sheffield Telegraph. He says: "In 1872, when a boy, staying at Hylland ward, Derbyshire, I called on an old woman, Elizabeth Durose, then 97, widow of a farmer, who told me that her grandmother, when a girl, had known a man—a distant relative—who had witnessed the execution of Charles I. The old woman then took out of a corner cupboard an old prayer-book, bound in black leather, which was, I fancy, of the time of Queen Anne, for I remember it had a frontispiece picturing a person in gown and bands, and wearing a long wig, saying prayers in a 'three-decker.' Opening it at the form of service for January 30, she showed me a piece of coarse linen, of the color of a dead leaf, which she said was a portion of a handkerchief which had been dipped in the king's blood, and was given to her grandmother by the above eye-witness. When it first passed into her possession it was nearly entire, but her children had played with it, and this was all she had managed to preserve."—Derby (England) Telegraph.

MR. BILLY SANDERS MAKES A SUGGESTION

Whether in jest or earnest, Joel Chandler Harris makes what is not such a bad suggestion in the July number of Uncle Remus's Magazine. Speaking through one of his clever creations, Mr. Billy Sanders, the sage of Shady Dale, Mr. Harris asks why it would not be a good idea to place Mr. Roosevelt in absolute control of the work on the Panama canal after he has completed his presidential duties. The philosophic Mr. Sanders does not like the idea of sending Mr. Roosevelt to the Senate. In his opinion, all the folks who do not like Mr. Roosevelt are anxious to place him in the upper branch of our national legislature, where he will be "smothered and smothered." Billy Sanders has no use for the Senate proposition and doesn't hesitate to say so in very decided language.

Mr. Sanders realizes, nevertheless, that the country has need of Roosevelt and faking the President at his word eliminates him from the list of White House possibilities. Therefore, he thinks we should place him in charge of the work on the canal and name the big ditch after him. This is the way the Shady Dale philosopher puts it:

"He's the only man in the world that can push that job through. The railroads ain't got money enough to buy him, nor men enough to bulldoze him. He's the man for the place, an' it'll be many a long day before you can find another just like him. Let Roosevelt build the Roosevelt canal."

Perhaps Mr. Harris was not entirely serious when he made Mr. Sanders give utterance to the remarks quoted, but we incline to the opinion that he was at least half in earnest. At any rate, the idea looks good. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt is not an engineer, but he is a hustler and if he were personally directing the work on the isthmus there is no doubt that the engineers under him would realize that they were having no vacation. We do not mean to criticize those who have up to this time directed operations in Panama. From all accounts, they have done well, but it has been more or less difficult to keep men on the job. If Mr. Roosevelt could be induced to take the position of "boss" he would certainly stay to the end and he would see to it that his subordinates remained, too. A good many worse suggestions have been made than this one emanating from the wise and cheerful Mr. Billy Sanders.

Strange Find in Trunk of a Tree Apparently Explained

To the Editor of The Herald:—Several months ago a story of "An Old Mystery" was printed in The Herald, telling of the finding of a tree of golden hair in the trunk of a tree. A short time since, I met the friend of an old lady of eighty-eight years, who now lives in Redding, Mass. The lady says that when she was a child it was a custom to take a lock of one's hair and in a piece of newspaper, put them in a box, bore a hole in the trunk of a tree and insert the box.

This was supposed to be a sure cure for toothache. This is as I had it from the friend, who was a New Hampshire lady.

HEARING AT EXETER

Mary Lambert's Claim Against the Smith Estate

A hearing will be held today in Exeter, before Attorney General Eastman, acting as commissioner, on the claim of Mary Lambert against the estate of Charles H. Smith of Newmarket, who died Nov. 15, 1905, in Boston, leaving an estate variously estimated from $1,000,000 to $500,000, the latter figures being about right.

Miss Mary Lambert entered a claim against the estate for $7,500 which she claims was due her from Mr. Smith. In support of her claim she will today present one of the strangest and strongest deeds that has ever been presented in a court. It is an agreement made between Charles H. Smith and Mary Lambert, by which she agreed to take care of Smith, and nurse him and act as his housekeeper, to travel when and where he wants to go, and in general to look after his interests. He also agreed to give her the sum of $7,500 in lieu of several notes she held of his, and in the deal he agreed to leave certain sums of money in banks in France for her use. The agreement also gives her the power of attorney and right to sign his checks.

By his will dated 1884, Smith left all of his property to his sister, and she is contesting the claim made by Miss Lambert.

THREE MILLION LOBSTERS

Liberated Off the Coast by Fish Commissioner's Steamer

A steamer from the United States Fish Fisheries at Gloucester, was off the coast on Tuesday, and liberated 3,000,000 lobster spawn and 208 large lobsters. The large lobsters were seed lobsters that had been stripped of their eggs and they were returned to the waters from which they were taken.

The work was done under the personal supervision of Supt. Collis of the hatchery, and the spawn and large lobsters were distributed from Odhams Point to Little Boar's Head. Supt. Collis has done a great deal to re-establish the lobster along the coast, and he has gained the confidence of the fishermen, who now all dispose of their seed bearing lobsters to the government agents.

Mr. Edward Downs of this city, was in Gloucester inspecting the hatchery on Tuesday, and he made the trip on the steamer that distributed the spawn. Mr. Downs has made a study of the lobster, and has great confidence that the methods of the government will eventually restock the seas with lobsters.

A NEW DISTRICT

Rye, Greenland, North Hampton and Newington Form Supervising District

A meeting of the school boards of Rye, Greenland, North Hampton and Newington was held at the office of Dr. Patterson, Rye Centre, Tuesday afternoon, for the purpose of reorganizing the district supervisory union. A union of the four above towns was effected, and Dr. Patterson was chosen chairman and Miss Odell of Greenland, secretary and treasurer of the joint board. Messrs. Whitfield, of Rye, Beane of Newington and Locke of North Hampton were chosen a committee to nominate a superintendent.

Of the towns formerly constituting this district, it is expected that Allen next year will be districtered with Wolfeboro and Tiltonboro; and Stratham with Newmarket, and Epping. North Hampton is the new member having adopted the supervisory law at the last school meeting.

State Superintendent Morrison was in consultation with the joint board and returned to Concord on the afternoon train.

ROCHESTER

Rochester, June 25.—The crowd at Central Park on Sunday was one of the largest in years. The music was furnished by the Rochester City band, with thirty musicians, and the selections rendered by this excellent organization were of the highest order. George Ayers, the eminent cornetist, was engaged as soloist. This band ranks among the best in New England.

There will be races at Cold Spring Park on Saturday and President

Frank Boston expects to have them every two weeks.

The shoe business is very good at present.

The St. John Baptist French Canadian Society observed their day by attending services on Sunday at Holy Rosary Church. There were 355 in the parade, which was headed by the city band. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Vien of Lewiston, Me.

FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Successful Lawn Party Given by the Girls' Friendship Club

On Tuesday afternoon, the annual lawn party for the benefit of the lawn party for the benefit of the Chase Home for Children was given by the Girls' Friendship Club on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey on Union street. Every year, the members of this association give an entertainment and sale for the purpose of raising funds for the Children's Home, and it has always been very successful. The party this year was no exception to the rule, more than twenty dollars being cleared.

Fancy articles, practically all of them the work of the young ladies of the club, ices, candy, cake and fruit punch were sold and those who served the guests found it difficult to supply the demand. Nearly everything was disposed of to the patrons.

There was a pleasing entertainment, selections being given on the Victor talking machine, with fine violin selections by Robert Ellery and vocal solos by Harold Marston, all much enjoyed.

The following are the members of the club:

Beatrice Oldfield, president; Frances Bailey, vice-president; Margaret Marston, treasurer; Maria Craig, secretary; Caroline Marston, Susan Moulton, Marion Moulton, Dorothy Oldfield, Hope Akerman.

Women as Well as Men Are Made

Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

When children are cross, irritable and peevish it does not signify that they have bad tempers; it shows that there is something wrong with the child which it is not able to explain, and which the mother—if she only knew—could easily and quickly cure. Mothers, study your child's symptoms: if cross, peevish, nervous, grumpy, fretful, wets the bed, picks the nose, has variable appetite or bowels, suffers with wind-colic or headache, is irritable and restless, has flurried tongue or offensive breath, you may be sure that child is troubled with worms, which cause nearly all the ills of childhood.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

will give your children that vigorous health which is so important to their future happiness. Dr. True's Elixir expels the worms, if there are any—if not it acts as a gentle laxative and tonic. It cleans out all waste matter from the stomach and bowels, tones and strengthens the entire system of adults as well as children. Dr. True's Elixir is a safe, pure, vegetable tonic and has been the standard household remedy for fifty-five long years. Sold by all druggists, 50c, 75c, $1.00. VARSITY CREWS WILL HEAR PISTOL AT HALF PAST ONE

New London, Conn., June 26—Once more is the lethargy of this old town aroused in anticipation of the annual battle of oars tomorrow between the crews of Yale and Harvard. The advance guard of graduates and undergraduates are discussing the probable winners of the big races. The town is brilliant with flags and hunting of crimson and blue and the place has taken on an air of life and activity customary to the occasion. Every arriving train is bringing its quota of enthusiasts. The influx tomorrow morning is expected to be an excess of anything ever known at a New London regatta and it is predicted that the largest crowd that ever witnessed a rowing event in American will see the rival crews struggle for honors.

The final practice of the two crews who are to battle for supremacy in the big race will take place today.

The tedious work of preparation will then be over and until called upon to take to the water tomorrow the eight husky sons of old Eli and the eight broad-shouldered youths from Cambridge will rest and take things as easy as the thoughts of impending battle will allow. There promises to be the usual large amount of betting on the result, but it is significant that so far neither the followers of the blue nor the adherents of the crimson are offering any tempting odds. In the matter of close followers of college rowing tomorrow will witness one of the closest and hardest battles between varsity eight-oared crews from Harvard and Yale that has ever taken place here.

The first race of the day is scheduled to start at ten o'clock tomorrow morning. This is the race of the

TELEGRAPHERS FIRM
Perfect Harmony Prevails and They Expect a Victory

(Special to The Herald)
New York, June 26—The following has been given out from the headquarters of the Brotherhood of Commercial Telegraphers:

"Official advice from the coast indicate that our forces are as firm as the Rock of Gibraltar, strengthened by the justice of their cause and the sympathy of the public. They await with confidence inevitable victory."

"The report generally circulated by a news agency regarding strike breakers being enroute has been proven to be absolutely untrue. The same agency carried a story stating that there was a lack of harmony between the President and the general executive board, but this was also untrue and was officially denied. Hundreds of letters and telegrams have been received at headquarters endorsing President Small and pledging unlimited support to the San Francisco strikers."

"The strike assessment has been responded to with such promptitude and liberality as to nearly swamp the general officials. A large force of clerks is working day and night and the daily receipts exceed $1,000."

"Four chiefs who had been working at Frisco are reported to have joined the ranks of the strikers."

"The work is being done entirely by a few officials who are already exhausted and who under the most favorable conditions are capable of handling only about ten messages an hour. Chicago is three days behind on all Pacific coast points and business is being mailed from there."

A HOT DAY

Tuesday Was the Hottest Yet—Heat
Prostrations

Tuesday was one of the hottest days of the summer, for not only was the temperature high, but the humidity was the greatest of the summer, and there was a lot of suffering from the heat.

At noon the temperature ranged from 109 in the sun to 95 in the shade, and there was very little air moving. In the afternoon there was a breeze blowing which made it more comfortable. The shower at six o'clock did not appear to clear the air, but at midnight the temperature had dropped to a good sleeping heat.

Tony Guillett a helper on the J. B. Pabst building on Daniel street, was overcome by the heat in the afternoon and he had to be taken home. The other helpers and hod carriers refused to work after that and all of the masons were forced to lay off for the remainder of the day. A man employed on a tennis court in the P. A. C. grounds was also overcome.

MONUMENT FOR DOGS

GRAVES OF ARISTOCRATIC CANINES ARE MARKED.

Wister Family of Germantown, Pa., Continues Custom Inaugurated Over Century Ago by Famous Artist Peale.

Philadelphia.—The aristocratic dogs belonging to the noted Wister family of Germantown have special honors conferred upon them after they are called from this earth to dog heaven. These blooded canines are treated during life with all the consideration due the extent of their pedigree, and even after death their names are passed on to posterity upon enduring monuments erected above their graves.

In thus honoring their canine favorites, the Wisters have perpetuated the example set by the famous artist, Charles Wilson Peale, one of the founders of the Philadelphia Academy of the Fine Arts, whose homestead and Wisters now occupy. More than a century and a half ago the great artist erected a monument above the grave of his pet dog. It was only a wooden shaft, resting upon a marble base. Painted white, it resembled marble. It was always kept in good repair, and when the wood began to decay it was replaced, from time to time, by a new shaft, an exact replica of the original.

Then, in 1820, the Peale homestead passed into the hands of William Logan Fisher, who presented it to his daughter when she married William Wister. Peale is said to have erected the first monument to his pet in 1772, soon after his return from Mount Vernon, where he had painted the now celebrated portrait of Washington.

Dog Monument at Germantown, Pa.

The monument stood there when the Wisters came into the possession of the estate. In their preservation of the historic glories of the homestead, as well as of their own family, shielding a social history upon everything in their possession, they have from generation to generation passed down the custom of enshrining their dogs beside the dust of Peale's favorite. The inscription on the monument, however, changes with successive occupants of the plot of ground.

Beside the beautiful driveway leading up to the historic Peale homestead, now the Wister mansion, a short distance from Wister station, can still be seen the humble white shaft. The last family pet to which this simple but imposing memorial was erected was "General." The monument bears the inscription:

"GENERAL."
June, 1888. December, 1900.
But another household favorite, soon probably to pass to the notable canine cemetery, in a handsome brown Newfoundland. He has reached the distinction of mature years—in London—and during his lifetime so far has behaved with the full social dignity and aristocratic honor of his patron family. When his last moments come the Wisters will reward him, too, by strict adherence to family traditions in giving him a place beneath or beside the monument that has marked the resting place of so many aristocratic dogs.

With his 150 years' record, this little plot of ground, it is claimed, is the most notable dog cemetery in the city. In fact, the cemetery is so notable that even since revolutionary days have been laid to rest in it.

Given a "Sign."
The Rev. Dr. Fourthly was reading the evening lesson from the book of Job, says the Chicago Tribune.

"Yes, the light of the wicked shall be put it out."
At this instant, by one of those inexplicable accidents that sometimes happen, all the electric lights went out leaving the church in total darkness. "Brethren," said Dr. Fourthly, without a moment's hesitation, "in view of the sudden and startling fulfillment of this prophecy, we will spend a few minutes in silent prayer for the electric light company."

To accomplish the end sought by the means employed in success, a thing exceeds that does what it was meant to do.—Home Herald.

MARRIES STEEL MAGNATE.

Mabelle Gilman, Former Actress, Now Wife of W. E. Corey.

New York.—Mabelle Gilman, formerly a musical comedy performer, who the other day became the wife of W. E. Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, is well known to the amusement loving public. She is a California girl, and first played in this city under the management of the late Augustin Daly. Later she appeared in musical comedy, and subsequently won popularity in London in "Dolly Varden," "Amorette" and other plays. Miss Gilman was mentioned in the divorce proceedings of the first Mrs. Corey, who obtained her decree of separation, with charge of her son, on July 30 last. Various rumors since that time were that Corey and Miss Gilman were to be married in Paris, where Miss Gilman and her mother lived some time. Mr. Corey was recently elected president of the Steel Corporation.

Corey first became prominently known to the general public when, in August, 1901, he succeeded Charles M. Schwab as head of the steel trust. It was in that year that Mabelle Gilman visited Pittsburgh as a member of the "Mocking Bird" company. Mr. Corey occupied a box at the theater on the first night, and was seen with the actress frequently throughout the stay of the company.

HIGH POST FOR SHERMAN.
Illinois Lieutenant Governor Placed on Spanish Claims Commission.

Washington.—Lawrence Y. Sherman, lieutenant governor of Illinois, has been appointed a member of the Spanish treaty claims commission at a salary of $5,000 per annum, and has accepted a vacancy that existed on the commission caused by the election to congress of G. J. Dickema of Michigan.

This is the commission headed by former Senator Chandler of New Hampshire. Mr. Sherman has the backing of Senators Cullom and Hopkins for the position.

The office of lieutenant governor pays but $1,000 a year, and in one year Mr. Sherman will receive more remuneration than he would in his entire four years' term as lieutenant governor. In addition he will occupy a position not only of national but international importance.

Mr. Sherman is a cousin of former Gov. Richard Yates and has lived in Illinois since 1855, less than a year after his birth in Miami county, Ohio. He was admitted to the bar in 1879 and began the practice of law in Macomb in 1882, where he was later elected city attorney, and after serving two years became judge of McDonough county. In 1896 he was first elected to the legislature and served four successive terms. He was speaker of the forty-first and forty-second assemblies, and in 1904 was elected lieutenant governor of the state.

Think Cave was Outlaws' Lair.
Workmen blasting rock for ballast on the side of Turkey mountain, about five miles south of Tulsa, on the Midland Valley, discovered what is believed will turn out to be one of the largest caves in the country. On the wall to the right near the entrance was the leader of a notorious band of outlaws in the early days of the territory, and it is thought that this cave was the lair of his gang.—Kansas City Journal.

TOGA FOR STEPHENSON

WISCONSIN SCLONS FINALLY ELECT A SENATOR.

Successor to Spooner Is Well-Supplied with Worldly Goods—Served Three Terms in Congress—Sketch of His Career.

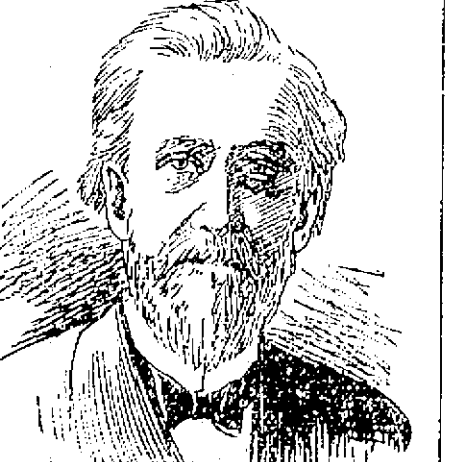

Madison, Wis.—Isaac Stephenson of Marinette, multi-millionaire, and prominent in political and financial circles of Wisconsin for more than half a century, has been elected United States senator to fill the unexpired term of John C. Spooner, which ends in March, 1909, after a prolonged deadlock.

The new senator is nearly 78 years old and most of his life he has spent in Wisconsin. He knows the Badger state from its peak in Lake Superior to its base in lower Lake Michigan. He knows its people, their families in many instances, and their histories.

Mr. Stephenson is no type in matters legislative. He served three terms in the lower house of congress, beginning in 1882, and gained during that time a thorough knowledge of what one needs to be and not to be if he would represent his state well and successfully. He lived several years at the Ebbett house in Washington, and used to come in close contact daily with the late William McKinley, who as a representative from Ohio put up for years at the same ancient hostelry.

Senator Stephenson is a many-sided man. He is a banker, a lumberman, a promoter of great industries, a farmer, a yachtsman, a fisherman, a devotee of out-of-doors sports such as horse racing, and a philosophical man of affairs. He believes in churches, though not himself a member of any denomination. He has contributed thousands of dollars to Roman Catholic, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist and other religious societies. He has built new church edifices and bought bellray chimneys galore.

The bulk of Mr. Stephenson's fortune of $10,000,000 was made in lumber.

ISAAC STEPHENSON.
(Wisconsin Man Who Will Fill Unexpired Term of Senator Spooner.)

He was one of the pioneers in the upper lake region to assault the virgin forests with ax and saw and to ship the manufactured product in sailing boats from Marinette, Escanaba, Flat Rock, Menominee and other centers of sawmill industry to the great port of Chicago.

Mr. Stephenson was born June 18, 1829, in York county, near the city of Fredericksburg, N. H. His father was of Scotch-Irish extraction, and his mother was a native of England.

Of rugged health and able to meet all sorts of hardship, young Stephenson at 18 was a six-footer and over. He could handle a cant-hook, peavey and pike pole with any experienced logging boss on the Menominee or Escanaba rivers, and that was something. When 21 years old Stephenson was bossing logging crews. In summer he sailed the lakes and carried board, lath and shingles to Chicago in schooners and buggers. In the summer of 1853 he had a controlling interest in the Schooner Cleopatra, which was lost that year in a fearful gale a mile or so off of Chicago.

In 1848 he accompanied Jefferson Sinclair and Daniel Wells to the first public sale of land in the northern peninsula and assisted in purchasing large tracts for a nominal cost. Later these lands produced millions in money for their owners.

In 1858, when only 29 years of age, he bought a quarter interest in the mill owned by the N. L. Lindstrom company, a corporation still in existence. This was the basis of his great fortune, for within ten years he had made over half a million dollars, and was in sight of several millions more.

Mr. Stephenson is the largest stockholder in the Stephenson National bank of Marinette. He owns several large farms, among them being one near Marinette, another seven miles north and up river, and a third of 900 acres near Kenosha. Mr. Stephenson with others own the big paper mills bordering the river at Marinette. The Marinette Cereus also has extensive possessions in the far west and in the Canadian country. He owns a steam barge and several smaller boats and also a trim steam yacht, the Bonita.

Mr. Stephenson has been married three times, first in 1852 to Margaret Stephenson. Four children, now living, came of this marriage. In 1873 he married Augusta Anderson, and three children, two girls and a boy, were born of her. In 1883 he wedded Elizabeth Burns of Green Bay, and one son blessed this union.

We talk a good deal about answers to prayers, but a good life is an answer to our Father's prayer.

PEACEFUL AFRICANS.

The Moundans Carry Farming Tools Instead of Warlike Weapons.

New York.—That the native African is not always and invariably a poor, half-caked brute has been proved by the reports and photographs brought back to France by the "Moll Mission," an expedition sent to the French Congo about 18 months ago for the purpose of determining some unsettled boundary questions. South of Lake Chad Commandant Moll discovered a peaceful race of agriculturists and shepherds, intelligent and hospitable, ripe for civilization, living in pastoral simplicity. Everything about the Moundans is picturesque and interesting. They are a vigorous and handsome race, and very brave, but, contrary to the almost universal practice of the Africans in regions where white rule has not been established, they never carry arms. On the contrary, the implement oftenest seen in their hands is a hoe.

Nevertheless, they appear to have descended from warlike ancestors, and were probably driven southward from their original mountain home by some conquering chief. Reminiscences of this past may be seen in their semi-military architecture, which does not resemble that of any of the neighboring peoples. At a little distance one of their villages looks like a fortified city.

The Moundan village, of which Lere is an excellent type, is inclosed by a series of round towers connected by walls from two or three metres in height. Inside, parallel to the inclosing walls, is a circle of cupolas, each one pierced with a single hole. These are the granaries, the most important buildings of the town. They are erected on piles supported on great stones, which places them beyond the reach of termites and rodents, as well as of dampness, and the only entrance is through the hole in the vaulted roof. Between the outer wall and the granaries are the homes of the people, while the residence of the chief faces the entrance.

MEMORIAL TO SOLDIERS.

Monument Presented by Chicago Man to Madison, Ind.

Madison, Ind.—The accompanying illustration is a picture of the soldiers' and sailors' monument given to the city by George Middleton of Chicago. It will cost when completed $10,000. Mr. Middleton was a member of the Third Indiana cavalry and he has taken this method of remembering his dead comrades.

The four figures represent three private soldiers and a sailor, of the four different branches of the service—infantry, artillery, cavalry and navy. The figure of the cavalryman, standing, drawing a saber, is seven feet high. The sailor, holding the flag aloft, is also seven feet high, and the others in the kneeling positions, in the act of firing, are in proportion. The granite base will be 12 feet high, and the bronze cast, from the base to the top of the flag, about the same height, making a total of 25 feet.

The sculptor is Sigvald Asbjornsen. The monument will be ready for dedication about September 1.

Bonds New and Old Concrete.

The difficulty so long found in bonding together new and old concrete has been solved by a recent patent. This bond consists of an extract of coal tar, used instead of water in the mixing agent for neat Portland cement. The mixture is laid in one-eighth inch to one-quarter inch layers on the old concrete surface, and immediately followed by new concrete or mortar. The inventor says that the compound is entirely insoluble, and forms a complete and monolithic bond between the old and new work.

IS COOK FOR A KING

M. MENAGER, FRENCHMAN, A GENIUS IN HIS ART.

Edward VII. Pays $10,000 Salary Yearly to Monarch of Royal Kitchen Who Prepares Meals at Buckingham Palace.

London.—One of the privileges which the sovereign is still allowed to retain in democratic England is the appointment of his own chef.

When there is a change of ministry King Edward, at the dictation of the prime minister, has to take on a new lord chamberlain, who is nominally the boss of the upstairs department of the royal household, and a new lord steward, who is supposed to have supreme control of the culinary department.

But the real monarch of the palace kitchen, the "chief cook," as he is officially styled in good old Anglo-Saxon, is not subject to the vicissitudes of politics. Whatever party is in power he continues to hold his job at his majesty's pleasure, which is just as long as he contrives to satisfy his majesty's highly cultivated epicurean tastes.

This is a matter which really affects the king more closely than a change of administration, for whether the liberals or the conservatives are in a majority, he can exercise very little control over the government.

The august functionary who ministers to the royal appetite is M. Juste Menager, a native of the land of good cooks, and something over 40 years of age. He gets $10,000 a year, which is $500 more than is paid the first senior of the admiralty, the famous Sir "Jackie" Fisher, who practically runs the British navy.

M. Menager has an easy billet. He is paid his big salary not so much for what he actually does, as for knowing how to do it.

M. JUSTE MENAGER.
(King Edward's French Chef.)

So great a culinary artist is not expected to produce three masterpieces in one day. With the breakfast of the king, which is always a modest meal, he does not concern himself. He is not required to sleep under his master's roof like most of the royal menials, but lives in a private residence a short distance from Buckingham palace. He always drives to the palace, arriving there shortly after 11 o'clock. In his own private office, a sunny apartment adjoining the kitchen and overlooking lawns, he receives the luncheon carte drawn up by Lord Parquhar, the master of the king's household, and begins his day's work.

The office of the lord steward, who is nominally at the head of the gastronomic department, is practically a sinecure. It is at present filled by Lord Hawkesbury, who pockets $10,000 a year for drawing his salary and looking imposing on state occasions when his attendance is required.

If M. Menager were capable of envy he might occasionally envy the lord steward. But he has declared that he would not be happy if he were not able to practice his art. And so far as fame is concerned, as the king's chef he enjoys a far greater measure of it than is bestowed on any figurehead functionary. Besides abundance of leisure is allowed him in which to cultivate his own pet hobbies or seek gastronomic inspiration. After luncheon is served he is free to do what he pleases until six o'clock, when preparations for the great vent of his domain—dinner—begin.

At his command for this work are four master cooks, and a retinue of well-trained attendants, all clad in immaculate linen. Perfect discipline prevails among them. Clockwork regularity is the rule. Each dish is begun and finished within a minute of the appointed time. Few words are spoken.

The king's kitchen contains something like $10,000 worth of utensils. There are no less than 800 pots and pans, most of them of copper, and five scouers are solely employed to keep them brightly burnished. There are 4,000 knives, 3,000 forks, and as many spoons of various sizes used for cooking and kitchen purposes. For the service of the royal table there are 8,000 forks and spoons of massive silver.

Like the king himself, M. Menager is a tactful man. He knows how to please the women folk and the man who does that is sure to be popular. He has badly challenged the opinion entertained by most exalted chefs that women are incapable of mastering the higher mysteries of the culinary art. He encourages women cooks. He employs several of them at Buckingham palace. He has declared that there are at least half a dozen women cooks in London who are capable of preparing a dinner fit for the king.

TO SUCCEED SECRETARY LOEB.

Assistant Postmaster General Hitchcock Slated for Post.

Washington.—Frank H. Hitchcock, who began his Washington career some time ago by ranking as the youngest chief clerk of any department, is booked to be secretary to President Roosevelt beginning January 1 next, when Secretary Loeb retires for the presidency of a Washington traction company.

Hitchcock is now the first assistant postmaster general, and George B. Cortelyou, when giving over the department, declared he was easily the most efficient worker in any division of the national employ.

It is undoubtedly on the recommendation of Mr. Cortelyou that he is going to get his new appointment, for he is regarded as just the man to carry out the spirit which has prevailed there for some time.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK.
(Slated as Loeb's Successor as Secretary to the President.)

Hitchcock is a man from the ranks, an example of what can be done in Washington without pull. Educated in Boston schools and working his way he went to Harvard and graduated in 1891. Out of Harvard he was recommended to Washington for chief clerk of a department, and down there he came. But department work did not hold him, for he took up the study of law, and graduated from the Columbian law school in Washington and was admitted to practice before the supreme court.

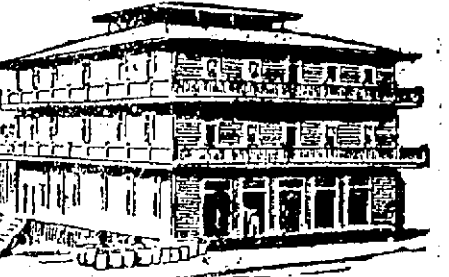

Meanwhile he had been taking other civil service examinations in various places, and finally attracted the attention of Cortelyou, who took him under his wing.

COLON'S NEW OFFICE BUILDING.

Success of Trader Who Foresaw American Occupation of Panama.

New Orleans.—The first office building in Colon was recently opened to tenants through the enterprise of Isidore Rich, a Central American trader of this city. The building occupies a lot 60x85 feet, is of substantial construction and contains 44 rooms, every one of which has already been taken, besides the two stores on the ground floor.

Mr. Rich has been trading in the tropics for a lifetime almost, and is thoroughly posted on all matters there; so years ago he foresaw the American occupation of the isthmus of Panama and made a few investments in Colon. He established the American Trading company there and developed it into a successful enterprise.

A fact that is not generally known is that all the land upon which the city of Colon is built belongs to the Panama Railroad company, and therefore to the United States government. The land is leased for periods of five years at so much per annum, according to the location of the lot.

From Prayer to Laughter.

A revival meeting was in progress, and Sister Jones was called upon for testimony. Being meek and humble, she said: "I do not feel as though I should stand here and give testimony. I have been a transgressor for a good many years and have only recently seen the light. I believe that my place is in a dark corner behind the door."

Brother Smith was next called upon for his testimony and, following the example set by Sister Jones, said: "I, too, have been a sinner for more than 40 years, and I do not think it would be fitting for me to stand before this assembly as a model. I think my place is behind the door, in a dark corner with Sister Jones."

And he wondered why the meeting was convulsed with the laughter of those who came up to pray.—Cleveland Leader.

Gen. Pan, who succeeded in command at Nancy, France, Gen. Railroad, relieved of his command for talking too much, apparently has resolved not to be guilty of that fault. His order of the day, in taking charge, has this: "Appointed to command the Twentieth corps, I take over the command of that army corps from this day forward."

CITY BRIEFS

June has broken some heat records after all.

The police have been very active during the past few days.

A well known business firm is said to have offered its place for sale.

Summer schedules are now in force on the Portsmouth electric railway.

Bookings at the Summer hotels furnish additional evidence of a prosperous season.

The outlook for the hotels at the Isles of Shoals is said to be better than for many years.

Kittery and York are gaining in favor as resorts for men and women of literary prominence.

A larger attendance than ever before is expected this year by the managers of the Summer school.

People are never satisfied. When the east winds blow they long for breezes and when the mercury starts to climb they pray for a breath of the cool wind from the east.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING

Boils Struck in Many Places in This Vicinity

Reports of damage done by lightning on Tuesday evening continue to come in. Several houses in this city and vicinity were struck and much damage was done to trees.

One bolt struck the house at Edgar Burham on Woodlawn avenue, Kittery, demolishing the chimney and tearing off shingles. It passed into the house, smashing the furniture of one room and leaving the apartment in much the same condition that would have resulted from a cyclone. No fire was started and no one was injured.

The chimney of a house on Spring street was smashed and shingles torn from the roof and a bolt also did damage on Partridge street.

A large tree in the South cemetery was killed and another tree on Wild street was struck.

Wires on South street were also targets for the lightning shafts and some of them were put out of commission.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company was again a sufferer and today some of its city lines refused to work.

Mrs. Henry Wendell of South street received a severe shock while at the telephone, the result of a bolt striking the wire. She fell to the floor and was unconscious for nearly an hour, but had fully recovered this morning.

A HARD STORM

Electrical Storm Tuesday Does Damage

LIGHTNING STRIKES SEVERAL PLACES

Woman Killed in Berwick, Man Injured in Somersworth

YORK HARBOR COTTAGE STRUCK—MANCHESTER HIT HARD BY STORM

A thunder shower that equaled that of a week ago broke over this city shortly after six o'clock on Tuesday evening, and for nearly an hour there was a constant flash of lightning with rolls of thunder. The storm was accompanied by a heavy rain which nearly flooded some of the streets.

The storm came up from the west and it followed two storms which apparently passed to the north of this city. This storm was however centered over the city and several places were struck by lightning.

The storm which passed to the north apparently was more severe than that which broke over this city, for considerable damage was done. At Berwick, Mrs. Herbert W. Johnson was killed, while standing in a barn, three miles out of the town. She had run to the barn to escape the storm, and the barn was struck and she was killed by the bolt.

In Somersworth, H. Carlotte while crossing the bridge in his wagon, was knocked out by a bolt which struck the bridge, and he was rendered unconscious.

At York Harbor, the cottage occupied by Mrs. G. M. Bell and Mrs. A. Wheeland of Boston, was struck and the house considerably damaged by fire.

In Manchester the storm was especially severe, six houses were struck, and three badly damaged by fire. The residence of John Andrews was struck and badly damaged, and there was a big loss of oil paintings and carpets. No one was injured.

In this city a bolt struck the chimney of the house of Police Officer William Anderson on Wilder street, and demolished it. The bolt however passed out through the house without setting a fire.

A bolt came into the Rockingham County Light and Power plant on Daniel street, and burned out several transformers. This caused a complete tie up of the entire electric railroad system until the repairs were made. The power was on again in thirty minutes. A bolt struck one of the company's high tension wires on Deer street and ran along to the glass insulated fasteners on the pole. This was shattered and the pole set on fire. This caused some little excitement in that neighborhood, but there was not much damage to the pole.

The Jim Blaine house at Rye was struck and the chimney knocked down. An electric car was struck and the motors burned out on the Rye line. This caused a delay until another car was sent down and the disabled car hauled into the barn.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

To Be Provided by Negotiations Now in Progress.

About three years ago, Alderman William L. Condon talked and worked for a public playground in the vicinity of Langdon Park and the South Pond. Not much was accomplished at the time and the matter apparently was put on the shelf.

Of late, however, the matter has been resurrected and it now looks as if Portsmouth will at last have a good playground. Not only that, but it is practically settled that Langdon Park will be put in good condition through the generosity of Woodbury Langdon, new trustees will be appointed to perpetuate themselves and the park embellished to a great extent.

The portion of the South Pond and surrounding property spoken of for a playground, covering twelve acres of land, is the property of Rev. Alfred Elwyn and it is understood that he stands ready to deed it to the city providing the city government will take immediate action toward beautifying it.

It is known that the city officials have displayed much interest in the matter and as soon as it comes to

FOR LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

Sum of $50,000 Appropriated by Boston and Maine Railroad

The Boston and Maine directors at a recent meeting appropriated over $50,000 for the work of rebuilding the Dover Point bridge on the Portsmouth and Dover branch of the Eastern division.

It is understood that the improvements will include a new steel draw, with modern appliances for opening and closing.

BLOCKED THE TRACKS

Wagon Collapsed and Railroad Traffic Was Delayed

A driver of a lumber wagon from Rye had plenty of trouble on the Vaughan street crossing on Tuesday afternoon.

As he was passing over the railroad tracks, one of the forward wheels of the wagon, which was heavily loaded with board, broke from the axle and the whole load was let down on the tracks. In consequence, railroad traffic on the outward tracks was blocked.

The pair of horses were put on the load and attempted to drag it away, but failed and the lumber had to be unloaded to clear the tracks.

GOODWIN-FOSTER

Marriage in Eliot of Popular Young People of That Town

On Tuesday afternoon at half-past one in the Congregational vestry in Eliot occurred the marriage of Miss Cora F. Foster and J. Moses Goodwin, both of Eliot. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Newton Brown, the ring service being used.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white muslin, trimmed with lace, and was unattended, the marriage being a quiet one on account of a recent death in the bride's family.

After the ceremony, the couple entered an automobile which was in waiting and proceeded to the home of the bride's mother. There she donned her traveling suit of brown Panama cloth, with hat to match, trimmed with a long white plume and pink roses, and again entering the automobile, accompanied by the bride's sisters, Mrs. Fernald and Miss Myra Foster, they were driven to Portsmouth to take the five o'clock Boston train, refusing to disclose their destination.

When they reached the station they were much surprised to find that they had been tagged, "Just married."

The groom is the oldest son of Moses Goodwin and has a milk route in Eliot and Kittery. The bride is the fourth daughter of the late Alden and Mrs. Georgia Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin will occupy a home already fitted for them, furnished and adorned, in part, by wedding gifts, including silver, china and linen.

They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for a long and happy life.

VISITING FRIENDS HERE

Robert Amazeen of Revere, an old time railroad man and a former resident of New Castle, was here today calling on old friends. On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Amazeen will celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Amazeen is eighty-eight years of age and his wife is eighty-four.
